PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION 2008

August 15, 2008

We would like to start this newsletter by giving you, our valued customer, a warm thank you for your support in making the 2008 season a successful one. Our top priority at Pool Spa Doctor is to supply you with the highest quality of customer service, ensuring you that your pool or spa season is fun and enjoyable. From January 1, thru July 15, 2008, we've had the opportunity to service over 300 new customers! Thank you again, and we hope that we have lived up to your expectations.

In preparation for the off-season your 2008 winterizing contract has been enclosed. Simply circle your preferred closing date at the top of the contract page, check off any additional services, and return by fax or mail. For preventative maintenance, we strongly recommend the "Filter Reconditioning" service. The service entails picking up your filter at the winterizing, bringing it to our shop, performing a complete inspection, repairing and reconditioning it during the winter, and returning it at the summerizing clean and ready for the 2009 season. This process is necessary for efficient, optimal filter performance. Also, the "Winter Watch" service is crucial to the maintenance of your pool in the off-season, especially for tiled or concrete pools. We greatly appreciate the work generated from off-season damages that could have been avoided, but we also try to encourage you to take the steps necessary to reduce the number of repairs. Please be sure to read over the entire contract, which will help to answer any billing questions that you may have. Remember: You have a leak if you are adding water once a week or more to your pool. This must be FIXED IMMEDIATELY or damage will most certainly occur.

It's been almost 40 years since I started in this business. Pool and Spa technology has advanced to the point where today my computer gets an email and a text message sent to my cell phone, via satellites, the instant a pump stops or the water chemistry goes out of range. This and other great advances help us help you keep your pool water crystal clear.

This summer I've had the pleasure of running the business with five of my six sons. Along with my other field technicians, retail store and office staff who keep the day-to-day operations at the Pool Spa Doctor running smoothly, I appreciate and applaud all of their hard work, effort and dedication. I could not run the business without their help.

At our website you can access information about your pool and spa. Or you can click on the CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS, section that displays several pictures of our projects. Such as: PORCHES, ADDITIONS, SUN ROOMS, KITCHEN AND HOUSE RENOVATION, GARAGES, NEW CUSTOM HOMES, STONEMASONRY and DRAINAGE SOLUTIONS. Or some personal information on wine making, business and family history and my life's passion-the study of eschatology which is the study of end time events-NOT the end of the world. Please read disclaimer below.

THE FOLLOWING MAY NOT BE POLITICALLY OR RELIGIOUSLY CORRECT AND MAY OFFEND YOU!

My last newsletter named "CAN YOU IDENTIFY THE SIGNS OF THE TIMES" sent in February 2008, I showed examples of Biblical Prophecies being fulfilled in our world today. Also included: Islam's relation to the world, especially Israel, the Middle East conflict, Iran's president's defiance of the UN request to stop Uranium enrichment, the Pope praying in a Mosque, technological advances, the Jewish Sanhedrin reforming, rising disregard for life as seen in the murders committed at colleges and churches on the rise. America today has never faced so many different crises at one time.

My 90-year-old Dad said that Obama sounds like a very smart man. However, there is something terribly strange about Barack Hussein Obama. We all feel it. Either it sickens us to think he may be in the White House or we can't help but vote for him and nobody can explain why. There is an eeriness there that can't be denied. Many people, including members of his party, feel it, so it isn't political. The mistakes he's already made would be more than enough to sink an ordinary, mortal candidate, but not Obama. The fact that he was a member of a kind of black KKK (church) for twenty years would be a candidacy-killer for any other candidate. When George Bush addressed Bob Jones University, some painted him a 'racist' -- even after Bush had appointed the first black and first black woman, successively, to represent the US abroad. (I am not a racist-I'd vote for Colin Powell in a second)

One would have expected Obama's elitism to hurt his hold over working-class voters. During the Iowa campaign, he tried to connect with working class voters by commiserating about the runaway price of arugula at his local gourmet supermarket. His speech in which he characterized Middle America as Bible thumping, gun toting, racist rednecks didn't hurt him in Middle America. Neither did his criticism of Americans as unilingual ignoramus because of their inability to speak French or German. (Neither can he). On his European tour in July, he tried to get permission to give a campaign speech from Berlin's Brandenburg Gate, which was the site where Ronald Reagan's famous words were spoken, "Mr. Gorbachev, tear down this wall." No doubt Obama had some equally memorable line prepared, but he wasn't able to deliver it because Germany wouldn't let him speak there. Alternately, Obama chose Berlin's Tiergarten Park where he spoke to two hundred thousand standing before the "Victory Monument." Incidentally, Adolf Hitler had the monument moved to Tiergarten Park from its original location.

Still, Barack Hussein Obama gets a pass and his credentials enhanced. Obama's campaign has decided to characterize anything that doesn't portray him as some kind of political messiah as being 'a smear'. See the "Fight the Smears" web site where allegations are addressed. There you will find a posted copy of a Hawaiian birth certificate to prove the senator was born in the U.S. and eligible to run. Rumors have stated that he was born in Kenya, and therefore would be ineligible to run for the White House. The website Israel Insider hired a forensics expert to examine the copy of the birth certificate after readers began to question the following inconsistencies. 1. The photocopy didn't have fold marks and it should have. 2. There was no embossed state seal. If there were a seal on the original, it would have been on the copy as well. 3. There was no signed certification from a state official, as required by law. 4. In block letters at the bottom it says, "ANY ALTERATIONS INVALIDATE THIS CERTIFICATE." The expert concluded that the birth certificate is a "horrible forgery." WHY wasn't it questioned by anybody from the media? There is little doubt that Obama has mesmerized the mainstream media. All 3 network anchors traveled with Obama on his European Tour. (None went with McCain.) If the birth certificate were genuine, one would expect the mainstream media to prove it, if for no other reason except to clear their candidate. But none of them have even tried.

The existence of a forged document clearly indicates that someone wants to conceal his place of birth. If Obama were born outside the country, then the only kind of birth certificate he could produce would be a complete forgery. Obama may be bold, but that kind of boldness borders on madness. If Obama were born abroad and it was proved, he'd transform from presidential candidate to convicted felon quickly. There must be a valid Hawaiian birth certificate issued just not displayed on the website. If concealing one's place of birth isn't the purpose for forging a birth certificate, what else could it be? Maybe conceal the circumstances - was his name really Barack Obama? Were his parents married? Possibly to conceal the fact that Barack Obama Sr. who's listed as a black African was an Arab. Barack's entire candidacy, is rooted in his being the first black American major party nominee. If his father is really an Arab, and his mother is white, then Barack Obama is not America's first black candidate after all. It's not supposed to be about race. But it is.

Obama is correct in saying that the world is ready for someone like him – a messiah-like figure, charismatic, sophisticated and seemingly holding all the answers to all the world's questions. The Bible says that a leader similar to his demeanor will make his appearance on earth. I don't know if Obama is that man, but his world tour provided us with an indication of the reception he can expect to receive. Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice describes Obama's status as the nation's first black major-party presidential nominee an 'incredible accomplishment.' Obama says his candidacy 'transcends race'. That is unless being black works to his advantage. Then everything is race... "I'm black, so vote for me or you're a racist!" is buried somewhere in every speech. If you type 'racial candidate' into Google News Search, you will get over 5 million hits. Almost every story was about Obama, the 'post-racial' candidate. But what if it's a con? What if it turns out that Barack Hussein Obama isn't black after all? In a democracy, it can be rightly observed that the people get the government that they desire. At this time, many Muslims, Jews and Christians believe their Messiah is coming soon. (See Newsletter Summer 2007 named "SIGNS SIGNS EVERYWHERE SIGNS"). What are the choices, again? Oh yeah. A racist and a war hero. Decisions, decisions.

In the last days, not the end of the world as some may think, the Bible says the whole world will be conditioned to accept a savior, a messiah of sorts, who will seem to have all the answers to the religious, economic and political problems facing the world. The Bible says that at the heart of that conflict will be Jerusalem, and that the entire world will be consumed by this conflict. (Zechariah 12:1-2) Next Newsletter: Where are we in the prophetic timetable. Tic... Tic.. Tic.

This newsletter may not seem prophetic in nature, right now but if Obama gets elected we'll have front row seats.....

Thanks, stay healthy and God Bless!
